

Happy 18th birthday Deeksha!!

Not gonna lie, I sat here thinking about what to write after that line for 20 minutes. I literally deleted an entire paragraph just because it didn't feel right. I even questioned if sharing a letter via a PDF is good. No doubt, it's a big day for you. The start of a new life. I know that within your mind, you feel very confused, maybe even anxious about your future, but if I'm being honest here, you're one of the last people who should be nervous.

You're one of the most thoughtful people I've ever met, you take every step after taking everyone who might be affected into consideration, which is harder than you make it look. You always helped me and looked after me before I ever asked you too.

You're one of the strongest, most resilient people I've ever met. Life may not go smooth, it may push you down and make you fall, but you always stand up, ready to battle it again. You lose the battle when you give up, which you rarely, if ever, do.

You're one of the most curious and inquisitive people I've ever met. Never once do you refuse the chance to learn about something, to know about something which might not directly be useful currently. This is something about you that makes me feel proud.

You're one of the prettiest people I've ever met. Seeing your face makes my day. Seeing your smile makes me happy. I still have that one photo you sent me in december, I still look at it each night before I go to sleep.

You're one of the most loving people I've ever met. You have always loved me, cared for me, during my best and my worst, even when we are hundreds of miles away, your love always keeps me warm. I love you too, more than anything I know of, and I'll do everything I can to always keep you smiling.

Deeksha, as you're stepping into a new era of your life, I wish you the very best, I wish that you always be happy wherever you go, that you succeed in everything you aim to do, that each day you live is better than the previous day. And ofcourse, happy birthday♥️.

To the love of my life♥️

teddy wishes you happy birthday too♥